Peak pioneer provides a number of services to companies desiring to do business in Iraq. Whether it is exploring investment opportunities, facilitating government relations, or developing an entry strategy, Peak pioneer is prepared to assist you. Below is an outline of the types of services you may desire as you consider expanding your business in Iraq.

Investment services

In an increasing degree, international investors are investigating investment opportunities in northern Iraq.

As in all emerging markets, doing business in Iraq is a high-risk-high-return prospect. Peak pioneer is eager to assist legitimate investors to enter the market or to expand or diversify their current holdings in the region.

In late 2007 through early 2008, Peak Pioneer's senior staff met with a number of companies in northern Iraq to discuss their financial needs and ability to attract equity investment or debt financing. The activities were conducted on behalf of the Kirkuk Business Center and a Washington, DC-based consulting firm specializing in emerging market finance and business development.

Investment services

Services

- Identifying investment and business opportunities
- Screening potential partners and projects
- Analyzing potential projects
- Facilitating the due diligence and the investment process

Peak Pioneer - Trading

As globalization continues to increase companies are working harder to find new markets to sell their products and services. Due to its lack of production capacity and bulging oil revenues, Iraq's imports are rising quickly. While the consumer market continues to broaden and deepen, not all products or services will do well in present day Iraq.

Peak pioneer can save companies time and money by assisting them in their analysis and/or entry into the country.

Market Entrance Services

- Company registration
- Identification of a potential partner, distributor, dealers, or resellers
- Negotiations with potential partners
- Vendor search, and selection
- Regulatory compliance
- Setting up banking relationships and operations
- Warehousing , inventory and logistics analysis
- Develop and execute local marketing and advertising strategies
- Source local advisors including legal, accounting and media experts
- Provide coaching on managing a successful partnership in Iraq

Trading

In 2007 a European firm approached us about assisting them in entering the Kurdish market. After conducting a limited amount of market research it became clear the business model developed by the company would not succeed.

This finding saved hundreds of thousands of dollars in anticipated business development costs. When a company wants to enter the Iraqi or Kurdish markets without being burdened by managing the day-to-day activities, it can allow Peak pioneer to represent the company. Peak pioneer has access to a number of distribution networks for a large variety of products and staff to find sales opportunities for service companies.

Peak pioneer is eager to assist with a number of services needed by international companies as they attempt to do business in the region. The quality of the following services can range to extreme degree. Peak pioneer can identify those local companies who excel in the following services and negotiate better rates than international companies could achieve.

Services

- Translation and Interpretation Services
- Website translation and content localization
- Travel and logistical assistance
- business networking services Executive sourcing, recruitment and labor issues

International Coverage

The Middle East possesses an expertise and ancient tradition in trading.

Due to its current low production capacity, Iraq imports almost all of its products from abroad while it begins to reconstruct its production capabilities.

Peak pioneer desires to expand the choices currently offered by reaching out to companies in new markets providing higher quality products.

Peak pioneer, as described above, Peak pioneer can assist companies in a number of ways as they try to enter the Iraqi and Kurdish markets.

Peak pioneer can also act as the agent, distributor or reseller of products and services.
